

Violations of the human rights of MPs in 2024

Cases examined by the IPU Committee on the Human Rights of Parliamentarians

Inter-Parliamentary Union
For democracy. For everyone.

The IPU Committee on the Human Rights of Parliamentarians is the only international complaints mechanism with the specific mandate to defend the human rights of persecuted parliamentarians.

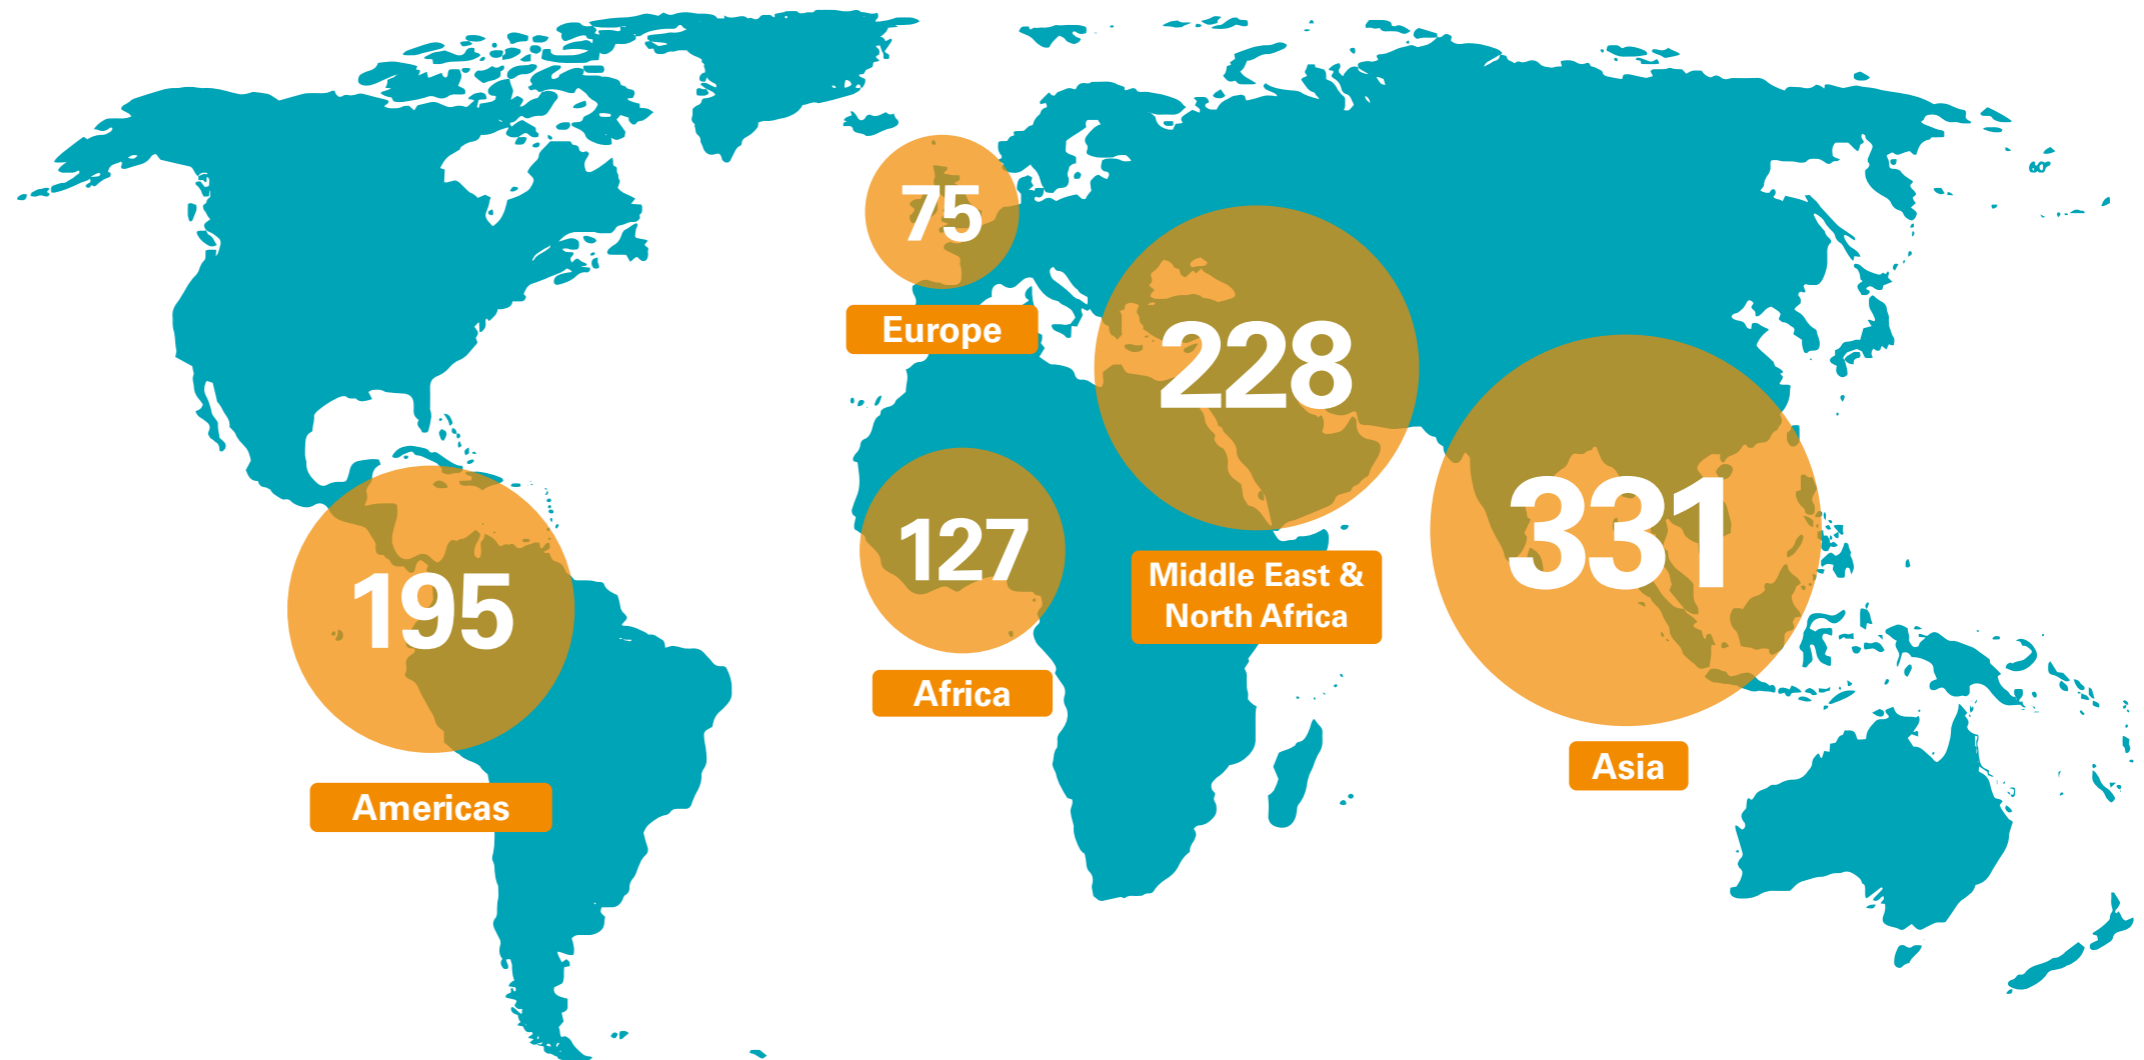

Its work includes mobilizing the international parliamentary community to support threatened MPs, lobbying national authorities, visiting MPs in danger and sending trial observers.

The Committee is made up of 10 parliamentarians, representing the various regions of the world, and elected by their peers for a mandate of five years.
